All viruses consist of genetic material inside an external coat. What are these two components made of?

A  nucleic acids and polysaccharides
B  protein and monosaccharides
C  nucleic acids and protein
D  protein and amino acids

The genetic material of a virus is a nucleic acid (either RNA or DNA). It is contained within a protein coat.

Answer C.