

Jack L. Ritchie
Curriculum Vitae
September, 2007

Contact Information:

Address: Department of Physics
1 University Station, C1600
University of Texas at Austin
Austin, TX 78712-0264

Education

Ph.D., Physics, University of Rochester (1983)
M.A., Physics, University of Rochester (1979)
B.S. with Honors, Physics, University of Texas at Austin (1977)

Employment

2001 – present Professor of Physics, University of Texas at Austin
1999 – 2001 Senior Program Officer and Team Leader for Facilities Operations,
Division of High Energy Physics, U.S. Department of Energy
1993 – 2000 Associate Professor of Physics, University of Texas at Austin
1988 – 1993 Assistant Professor of Physics, University of Texas at Austin
1986 – 1988 Acting Assistant Professor of Physics, Stanford University
1984 – 1986 Research Associate, Physics Department, Stanford University

Research

B meson decays, BaBar experiment (current)
Rare kaon decays, BNL E871, co-spokesman (1990-1998)
Rare kaon decays, BNL E791 (1984-1990)
Hadronic charm production, FNAL E595 (1978-1984)

Professional Associations

Fellow, American Physical Society

Professional Service Activities (Partial List)

2007 – Member, Board of Directors, Fermi Research Alliance, LLC
2006 – Member, Executive Committee of the Division of Particles and Fields of the American Physical Society

- 2004 – 2006 Member, Fermilab Board of Overseers, Universities
Research Association
- 1996 – 1998 Member, High Energy and Nuclear Physics Program Advisory Committee, Brookhaven National Laboratory
- 1994 – 1997 Member, Experimental Program Advisory Committee,
Stanford Linear Accelerator Center
- 1994 Member, HEPAP Subpanel on ‘Vision for the Future of High Energy Physics,’ (Drell Panel)
- 1989 – 1992 Member, Executive Committee of the Brookhaven AGS Users Group